HUNTINGTON — The spirit of Janis Joplin rocked the Keith-Albee Performing Arts Center on Tuesday evening for Marshall University's second-to-last Marshall Artists Series show of the fall semester.

The Tony Award-nominated Broadway musical "A Night with Janis Joplin" was a musical journey that explored what made Joplin become one of rock 'n' roll's greatest legends. It celebrated her music and her biggest influences, like Aretha Franklin, Etta James, Odetta, Nina Simone and Bessie Smith.

The next Marshall Artists Series show will be 7 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 5, featuring a stage adaptation of the beloved holiday TV special "A Charlie Brown Christmas." Tickets range from $35 to $58.
